Assign Construction Of Four New A-Subs

Four new nuclear-powered submarines will be constructed on the East Coast under the Navy's billion-dollar ship-building program for fiscal '56.

Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas announced assignment of the atomic subs and seven other new vessels this week.

He said bids for the fifth 60,000-ton Forrestal-class carrier and 1250 smaller ships will be invited from all qualified private shipyards.

At the same time, the Navy Secretary disclosed that nine Naval Shipyards have been selected to convert 26 existing vessels.

Two of the new atomic submarines will be built by the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., Groton, Conn., where the first A-sub, USS Nautilus, was recently completed. One will be an attack vessel and the other a radar picket submarine.

A third atomic sub will be constructed at the Mare Island Naval Shipyard, Vallejo, Calif., and the fourth at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard, Portsmouth, N. H.

The Mare Island yard also has been assigned the construction of a guided missile submarine, and the Portsmouth yard will build a conventional attack submarine.

In addition, the Bath Iron Works, Bath, Maine, has been assigned the construction of one frigate, and the Ingalls Shipbuilding Corp., Pascagoula, Miss., will build one attack submarine.

The other three new vessels are frigates (DLGs). Two have been assigned to the Puget Sound Naval Shipyard, Bremerton, Wash., and one to the San Francisco Naval Shipyard.

Secretary Thomas said some assignments to private, as well as naval, shipyards are necessary chiefly to insure proper utilization of basic lead yards.

Bids on approximately 1250 other new vessels will be requested from private yards. These ships include two frigates, seven destroyers, one submarine, two escort vessels, two ammunition ships, two inshore minesweepers, five patrol vessels

May Be Vice CNO

VAdm. Alfred M. Pride, USN, may be headed for a four-star assignment as the Navy's next Vice Chief of Naval Operations.

The billet currently is held by Adm. Donald B. Duncan, USN, who has completed more than four years in the post and is expected to be reassigned.

Admiral Pride, 58 next month, will turn over command of his Seventh Fleet to RAdm. Stuart H. Ingersoll, USN, late this year. No new assignment has been announced for the veteran aviator and speculation was rife at the Pentagon this week that he will be named to the number two Navy spot.

Greeting to The Journal on Its 92d Birthday

Assistant Secretary of Defense Robert Tripp Ross—"I am very happy to greet the Army Navy Air Force Journal on the occasion of its 92d birthday. Its long devotion to the journalistic business of providing our Servicemen and women with inter-Service news and the texts of official policy statements, personal orders and other material of direct interest to them has been of inestimable value. The editors and staff are to be congratulated for carrying on a valuable publishing tradition. My best wishes for the future."

The Honorable Wilber M. Brucker, Secretary of the Army—"In a period of changing military concepts the importance of fully informing Army personnel and the country-at-large of new developments cannot be overestimated. The Army Navy Air Force Journal truly mirrors the Armed Forces today, as it has for more than nine decades. By its accurate coverage of the Service news of our times for present information and future reference, and its devotion to the best interests of the military community, it is upholding the noblest tradition of journalism. My sincere congratulations to the Army Navy Air Force Journal on its 92d birthday."

Under Secretary of the Navy Thomas S. Gates—"The occasion of the 92d birthday of the publication of the Army Navy Air Force Journal is one to be noted with great pleasure and appreciation by the Navy. I would like to extend for the Navy, and on my own behalf, the sincere congratulations due to the Army Navy Air Force Journal and express the hope that this publication will continue to make its valuable contribution to the sister Services."

The Honorable Donald A. Quarles, Secretary of the Air Force—"May I extend my heartiest congratulations to you and your employees on the 92d anniversary of the establishment of the Army Navy Air Force Journal. Over the years, your thought-provoking editorials, and your honest and straightforward presentation of news have earned the respect of military personnel the world over. On behalf of myself and all members of the Air Force, I wish you many years of continuing success."

Admiral Arthur Radford, USN, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff—"Since its inception in 1863, the Army Navy Air Force Journal has been truly a 'Spokesman for the Services.' It has always lifted its voice on behalf of national preparedness, and on behalf of the individual men and women who serve their country. On this occasion of its 92d Anniversary, it is a pleasure to renew my congratulations, and to wish the Journal continued achievement and success in the future."

General Maxwell D. Taylor, Chief of Staff, United States Army—"It is a pleasure to note that the Army Navy Air Force Journal is observing its 92d anniversary. For almost a century now your publication has been in the business of accurately reporting news of the Armed Forces. The esteem in which the Journal is held by both military and civilian personnel throughout the Department of the Army indicates how faithfully and well you have reflected the passing military scene. I am most happy to extend my hearty congratulations to the Journal on having reached another milestone in its outstanding career and my best wishes for its continued great success."

Assign AF Inventor To Atom-Plane Project

Col. John H. de Russy, USAF, who already has a number of aviation inventions to his credit, has been assigned to be Chief of Logistics and Concepts at the Air Materiel Command, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, where his particular mission will be research and development of an atomic-powered aircraft.

Colonel deRussy has been commander of the 310th Bombardment Wing, Smoky Hill AFB, Kans. He will be succeeded there by Col. Selmon Wells, USAF, deputy commander of the 9th Bomb Wing at Mountain Home AFB, Ida.

Colonel deRussy is credited with designing portions of the present B-47 and its armament. He also perfected his own type of turbo-pitch engine. One of his latest inventions, on which he has a patent, is a revolutionary type parachute.

Name Nuclear Advisor To Army Surgeon Gen.

Col. Clinton S. Maupin, MC, USA, has been named as a special assistant to the Army Surgeon General in Washington, D. C. He will be concerned with keeping the office of the Surgeon General current on nuclear energy developments.

In June 1949 Colonel Maupin completed a year's course in the medical aspects of nuclear weapons at Reed College, Portland, Oregon. He was then assigned as assistant chief of the Army Environmental Health Laboratory at Edgewood, Md. From there he moved to Sandia Base, New Mexico, where for four years he was the staff surgeon of the Field Command of the Armed Forces Special Weapons Project. For a few months after that he was the director of the division of physiology and pharmacology at the Army Medical Service Graduate School.

OK Additional Paid Drills For AF-Res

Additional paid drills for members of the Air Force Reserve forces have been approved for fiscal '57, beginning next July.

The announcement followed an earlier disclosure by Maj. Gen. William E. Hall, USAF, Assistant Chief of Staff for Reserve Forces (THE JOURNAL, 13 Aug.) that such a proposal was under study.

General Hall said the AF currently doesn't have authority to provide "sufficient paid drills to assure what we believe to be a satisfactory degree of combat capability."

The Air Force said this week it has received authority from the Defense Department to program the following additional paid drills for fiscal year 1957:

1—48 paid drills for all mobilization assignees who occupy positions which require that they be proficient in an aeronautical skill.

2—24 paid drills, upon approval of the Office of the Secretary of Defense of the skill areas involved, for mobilization assignees who require this amount of inactive duty training to maintain their military proficiency.

3—15-day active duty tours only for those mobilization assignees whose civilian skills and occupations are so closely allied to their mobilization assignments that they do not require inactive duty training.

General Hall said earlier that the AF also is studying the possibility of providing 36 additional paid drills for pilots and flying personnel of Guard and Reserve units.

USMC Adopts New "Hit And Run" Anti-Tank Vehicle For Support of Invasion Troops

A new anti-tank weapon—for use on the regimental level—has been adopted by the Marine Corps and is expected to reach the field in about two years.

The Army, which purchases heavy ordnance equipment for the Marine Corps, has just let a $13 million contract with the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee, Wisc., for production of an undisclosed number of a new armored vehicle dubbed "Ontos"—a Greek word meaning "The Thing."

Originally, "The Thing" was developed by Allis-Chalmers for the Army which was considering adoption of "hit-and-run" tactics against enemy tanks. Evaluation tests of 10 "Ontos" pilot models, however, revealed that the Army's needs could be filled only by heavier vehicles with greater staying power.

The Marine Corps, on the other hand, which also participated in the experimental runs and tests of the revolutionary light-weight anti-tank vehicle, envisions its use as an additional force in the accomplishment of the Corps' primary mission—direct sea to land invasions.

The eight and a half ton "Thing," about two-thirds lighter than a light tank, five times lighter than a medium tank and seven times as light as a heavy tank, it was decided, would be ideal for close-in support of Marine invasion forces.

One of the "Thing's" primary advantages, it is pointed out, is the fact that it is light enough to be brought onto a beachhead by small landing craft in the early stages of an amphibious as-

ONTOS—"The Thing" which is being built for the Marine Corps.

Greeting to The Journal on Its 92d Birthday

Admiral Arleigh A. Burke, Chief of Naval Operations—"It is a welcome pleasure to extend the Navy's salute and my personal congratulations to the Army Navy Air Force Journal on the occasion of its ninety-second birthday. The 'Journal' continues to be an important and traditional medium for disseminating information to members of the Naval Service as it passes this historic milestone. I extend my sincere best wishes to the staff for continued success during the years to come."

General Nathan F. Twining, Chief of Staff, U. S. Air Force—"I would like, on behalf of myself and all who serve in the United States Air Force, to express heartiest congratulations on the occasion of the 92d anniversary of the Army Navy Air Force Journal. The Journal's comprehensive coverage of military news has been a source of satisfaction to Service personnel for many years. We also sincerely appreciate your dedicated efforts to promote a clear understanding of vital National Defense problems. You and your staff have my best wishes for continued success."

General Lemuel C. Shepherd, jr., Commandant U. S. Marine Corps—"Once again it is my pleasure to extend to you, and all members of your staff, the hearty congratulations of all ranks of the United States Marine Corps on the Anniversary of the Army Navy Air Force Journal. The Journal, over the past 92 years, has established and maintained a reputation that is indeed an enviable one. You may well be proud of its record as a reliable source of information concerning developments and activities of special interest to the Armed Forces of the United States—a record of fair, accurate reporting combined with a constructive and objective editorial policy. I have every confidence that this splendid record, covering almost a century, will be maintained throughout the future."

Vice Admiral A. C. Richmond, Commandant, U. S. Coast Guard—"Once again it is a pleasure to note that the Army Navy Air Force Journal has completed another year of service to the armed forces. The observance of your 92d anniversary should be a proud occasion for you and your staff. Few publications can boast of a record such as you have established through the years by your diligent search for news that is of interest to military personnel. Therefore, it should be gratifying to all of you to know that you are performing a most valuable service by the careful reporting and analysis of events which affect the armed forces, and that your efforts are appreciated. As in the past, The Journal continues to merit the confidence and respect of members of the Coast Guard, and it is my sincere hope and expectation that your good work will continue unabated."

Sixth Medico-Dental Meet Set For 17-23 Oct.

The Sixth Annual Military Medico-Dental Symposium for all Armed Forces medical personnel will be held at the U. S. Naval Hospital, Philadelphia, Pa., 17-23 October, under the sponsorship of the Commandant, Fourth Naval District.

BuMed urges all active and inactive duty medical officers to attend. Existing instructions permit officers to be issued "Authorization Orders" (at no expense to the Government). Reserve officers who attend will be given retirement point credits. Further details can be had from the District Medical Office, Building 4, U. S. Naval Base, Philadelphia 12, Pa.

sault. "Things" are not intended to replace tanks—they will continue to be brought in after a beachhead has been deepened—but are to be used as initial supporting weapons for infantry troops.

"Ontos," instead of mounting only one artillery piece, as is the case with tanks, carries six 106mm recoilless rifles. The "hit-and-run" vehicle sacrifices protective armor for maneuverability, speed—it makes up to about 40 miles per hour—and fire power.

Like the "Bat," revealed several months ago by the Army, "Ontos" carries caliber .50 spotting rifles. When "The Thing" comes within range of its target, the gunner fires one or more of the spotting rifles until the bullets flash on the objective. This indicates that the previously loaded 106mm's also are "on target." The gunner can fire them in salvos of two or in a battery of six. In addition to the four spotting .50 caliber guns, "Ontos" mounts a caliber .30 machine gun. Either the major or minor weapons may be fired by either a foot pedal or a hand trigger.

Once "The Thing" has delivered its barrage, it wheels and dashes to cover where the breech-loaded 106mm's again are readied for action.

Two of its six 106's may be dismounted for ground use.

Officially designated "Rifle, multiple, 106mm, self-propelled, M-50," the new weapon is a full-tracked, front sprocket driven vehicle. It is powered by a General Motors 145 horsepower engine, the same as that used in a two and a half ton Army truck. "Ontos" is capable of climbing a 60 per cent incline and can crawl over obstacles two and a half feet high.

51,422 USAFR Officers Picked For Promotion

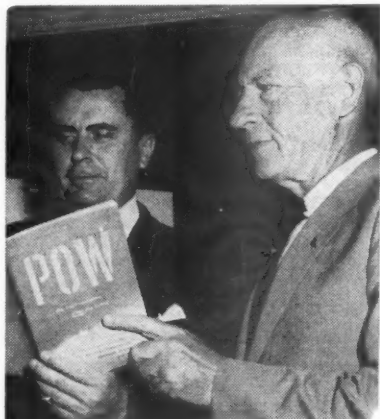

The Air Force has selected Reserve officers—the largest number ever advanced at one time—for permanent promotion in the Air Force Reserve.

The selected officers range in rank from 2d lieutenant through major. Approximately 21,000 are serving on active duty. Upon promotion, however, these officers will continue on active duty in their present grade. The remaining 30,000 officers, including more than 800 in the Air National Guard, are presently affiliated with Reserve and Air National Guard programs.

The selections include 16,017 to the rank of 1st lieutenant, 13,305 to captain, 14,158 to major, and 7,942 to lieutenant colonel.

About 10,000 of the officers who were given consideration for promotion failed to meet selection criteria and will be classified as "deferred." This group will be reconsidered early in 1956. Those who fail selection a second time will be considered for eventual release from Reserve commissioned status.

Notification to officers picked for advancement will be made through appropriate commands.

Hull, USA-Ret, Vice Chairman of the Committee, at a Pentagon briefing on the Committee's report and the new "Code of Conduct," which was printed in full in last week's Journal.

Col. McLauchlin Takes Command of Army's Ft. Greely; Will Be Arctic Training Center

Col. Henry H. McLauchlin, jr., USA, has assumed command of the farthest north Army post, Big Delta Alaska's new Ft. Greely.

The infant Army base is still under construction and a number of modern, concrete block buildings have been completed, including family quarters, and streets and sidewalks.

Colonel McLauchlin is from Decatur, Ga., where his mother, Mrs. Henry H. McLauchlin, sr., still lives. His wife is the former Juliette

Col. McLauchlin

Edwards. Their 16-year-old daughter has lived with them in many parts of the country, from Florida to Puerto Rico, to Virginia to Alaska.

The Colonel was graduated from high school in Decatur in 1929 and later attended Georgia Tech where he received his Engineering degree in 1938.

Colonel McLauchlin arrived in Alaska last August and was Executive Officer of the 4th AAA Group at Ladd Air Force Base until his new assignment to Ft. Greely several weeks ago.

Ft. Greely was formally dedicated 6

Aug. when top ranking generals of the Army and a member of the late Maj. Gen. Adolphus Washington Greely family arrived from Washington, D. C., for formal ceremonies.

The permanent Army base serves as an arctic center for the Army's intensive training and experimentation program which draws within its scope scientists, experts of arctic and wilderness survival, hundreds of students annually who attend the Arctic Indocination School and a full complement of military personnel in support of the Fort.

Lt. Col. Reid Commands Greenland AA Group

Lt. Col. Samuel L. Reid, USA, has assumed command of the recently activated 7th Antiaircraft Artillery Group, based at Thule Air Base, Greenland.

Thule Air Base is located about 930 miles from the North Pole.

The Group's mission, working with all-weather fighter-interceptor aircraft, is to protect the huge base from possible enemy air or ground attack.

Colonel Reid reports to Thule from assignments in antiaircraft defense at Chicago and General Staff work in Washington, D. C. Before that, he attended language school in Peking, China, in 1947-48.

He returns to the United States in June 1956.

Pentagon Turns "Thumbs Down" On Eight Benefit Measures Proposed By Congress

The Defense Department has turned thumbs-down on eight Congressional proposals to provide increased benefits for active and retired members of the Armed Forces.

All of the proposals are hold-over measures which were introduced in the House during the first session of the 84th Congress and referred to the House Armed Services Committee.

In returning "unfavorable" reports on the bills, the Defense Department said, in effect, that it will not go to bat for the measures if and when they are called up for hearings next session.

Here's a run-down on what the bills provide and what the Pentagon's objections are:

MAXIMUM RETIRED PAY—HR 2995 provides that members retired for physical disability (past or future), who are not entitled to maximum retired pay, and who served as enlisted men outside the continental U. S. between 1898 and 1912, should be credited with double time for such service in computing retired or retirement pay. At present, the only members who have the right to count foreign service between 1898 and 1912 as double time, for the purpose of computing their retired pay, are enlisted personnel retired for 30 years' service under the Act of 2 March 1907. The Pentagon says, "It is considered that the preferential treatment presently accorded this comparatively small group is discriminatory and there appears to be no valid or impelling reason for enlarging upon such discrimination by extending further double time benefits to the particular category of persons contemplated by HR 2995."

CHIEF OF NAVAL MATERIAL—HR 3794 would provide four-star rank for Chief of Naval Material. The Navy says it already has such authority and the rank "is not deemed appropriate for the Office of Naval Material." The report adds, "The prescription by statute of the grade of admiral for offices other than the most senior in military command is undesirable and would reduce the organizational flexibility which now exists."

GENERAL OFFICER GRADES—HR 1576 would advance officers on the Army retired list to the highest general officer grade for which they satisfactorily performed the duties in time of war. The Army says this would be difficult to do because during wartime many positions are considered general officer positions for relatively short periods of time and for certain operations. Furthermore "there appears to be no logical basis for singling out the grade of general officer for this preferential treatment rather than any or all of the lower grades."

THREE-STAR RANK—HR 2428 provides that the chiefs of each of several bureaus in the Navy, the Judge Advocate General of the Navy, and officers in comparable assignments in the Army and AF shall have three-star rank. The Pentagon says it already has authority to make these officers vice admirals or lieutenant generals when their duties are considered to be of the same or greater importance than the offices of those now holding three stars. Also, the Department notes, there is no mention of the Marine Corps in the bill, and if the legislation is favorably acted upon consideration should be given to inclusion of officers such as the Director of Marine Aviation, the Director of Marine Corps Personnel and the Quartermaster General of the Marine Corps.

ACADEMY APPOINTMENTS—HR 394 authorizes the superintendents of West Point and Annapolis to each appoint 50 additional cadets at large to their respective Academies from among sons of Regular officers of the four Services. The Pentagon says legislation specifying the superintendents as appointment authorities and restricting applications for admission to sons of officers would be contrary to established authority and "could bring undue criticism upon the services."

EDO SELECTIONS—HR 313 would change Navy procedures for selecting EDO officers for rear admiral. Civilian members would be provided for EDO selection boards. The Navy says, "Civilian engineers are not considered qualified to serve efficiently on boards to determine the comparative fitness of naval officers for promotion," and that "very few officers designated for engineering duty would desire civilian determination of their naval careers."

RESERVE OFFICER DISCHARGES—HR 5964 provides that Army or AF Reserve officers in the grades of 1st lt. through lt. colonel shall not be discharged on the date now prescribed in law for officers of all branches if he is on active duty as a chaplain, scientific specialist, Medical Corps, JAG Corps or CEC officer, if the Secretary determines that his retention is in the best interests of the service. The Pentagon says this

Military Needs Electronic Aids Reliable At 2000 MPH, Gen. Gerrity Tells Group

Bolder, more daring ideas and techniques in military electronics are urgently needed if this nation is to continue its advances in high-speed flight, Maj. Gen. Thomas P. Gerrity, USAF, told more than 300 military officers, Government officials, and industry executives attending a conference in Philadelphia on methods for improving reliability of military electronics equipment.

The reliability conference was sponsored jointly by the Air Force and the Radio Corporation of America.

General Gerrity, Assistant for Production Programming, Deputy Chief of Staff for Materiel, USAF, said:

"Of necessity, because of the speed and altitude at which our aircraft now operate, we have submitted electronic equipment for human direction wherever possible—for navigation, fire control, bombing, dection, and for evasion.

"Our dependence on electronic controls will increase. If we are to solve the problems of high-speed flight which now confront us, the need for reliability will become even more urgent. Now is the time to take a bold approach, to exploit new techniques in component development. We must set our sights on electronic aids that will continue to operate without failure at speeds of Mach 3 and above. (Mach 3 is three times the speed of sound at sea level, or approximately 2,000 miles per hour.)

"I am confident that the electronics industry will find a solution to the urgent problem of combining high performance and reliability in the electronic equipment which we must have. Further, I feel that we in the Air Force, jointly with the Radio Corporation of America, have gained some very valuable experience over the past few years which will be helpful to industry in the solution of this problem."

The Joint Reliability Conference was attended by officers of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Signal Corps, and Marine Corps; officials of the Department of Defense; and executives and engineers of electronic equipment and parts manufacturers, aircraft companies, and commercial airlines.

The first day's sessions were devoted primarily to presentations on numerous phases of equipment reliability. The presentations were based on results obtained by three RCA efforts looking toward the advancement of reliability in military equipment:

1—Establishment of an internal reliability organization devoted exclusively to the research and development of advanced reliability procedures.

2—Development of procedures which make it possible for engineers to predict in the laboratories the reliability performance of new equipment in design or development.

3—Development of factory tests which enable engineers to determine the reliability performance of equipment under field conditions. These factory tests reduce need for costly and time-consuming field tests.

The presentations were made by Col. Gordon T. Gould, USAF Air Research and Development Command, who addressed the conference on the military background of the equipment developed by RCA for the Air Force, and by RCA design and production engineers.

18th AF and XVIII Abn. Corps In Mass Drop at Fort Bragg For Service Leaders

Four of the 18th Air Force's five wings put on a massive demonstration of joint airpower with the XVIII Airborne Corps last week at Fort Bragg, N. C., before a distinguished Army and Air Force audience, including Army Secretary Wilber Brucker, General O. P. Weyland, USAF, commander of TAC, Lt. Gen. James Gavin, USA, G-3 of the Army, Lt. Gen. Thomas F. Hickey, USA, commander of the Third Army, and many others.

A successful and thrilling parachute drop was made by 2500 troopers of the XVIII Airborne Corps, from 70 18th Air Force transports, together with many tons of field artillery, jeeps and supplies. Eleven other 18th Air Force aircraft participated in the operation, either as air evac aircraft, spares, or in a special flyover.

Maj. Gen. Chester E. McCarty, USAF, commander of the 18th Air Force and Maj. Gen. T. J. H. Trapnell, USA, commander of the 18th Airborne Corps, teamed together to plan and direct the demonstration as they had done previously on the Korean and Indo China Airlifts.

Brig. Gen. Cecil H. Childre, commander of the 463d Troop Carrier Wing at Ardmore, Okla., was mission commander for the 18th Air Force.

Fifty-five Fairchild C-119 Flying Boxcars and 15 Douglas C-124 Globemasters were utilized. Twelve of the C-119's dropped field artillery and jeeps, while the rest dropped paratroopers and mono-rail supply bundles. Six of the C-124's dropped paratroopers, while the others each dropped 10 one-ton A-22 supply containers.

Four Sikorsky H-19 helicopters from the 464th Troop Carrier Wing at Pope AFB, N. C., were utilized for air evacuation of the injured, with personnel from Donaldson AFB's Tactical Medical Center flying air evac missions and taking care of injuries at Pope AFB and Camp Mackall, where most of the aircraft staged and were loaded with supplies and paratroopers.

Army Board Recommends New Type Raincoat

The Army's Uniform Board has recommended to the Chief of Staff that a light-weight taupe garrison raincoat be adopted and issued to EM.

In addition, the board suggested that the coat be approved for purchase by officers and warrant officers.

The opaque raincoat, after wear tests, has been found to be entirely waterproof, as well as mildew-proof.

The Army states that the poncho will continue to be the standard item of wear in the field and that the recommended raincoat, if approved by the Chief of Staff, will be issued as existing stocks of the old type raincoat are worn out.

Gen. Palmer Urges Full Strength Nat. Guard

The need for maintaining National Guard units at full strength in well-trained men before the outbreak of a possible war was emphasized 20 Aug. by General Williston B. Palmer, Army Vice Chief of Staff.

In an address at the Governor's Day Observance, Pennsylvania National Guard, at Indiantown Military Reservation, Pa., General Palmer pointed out that in past wars it was possible to spend months after the fighting began in recruiting and training battle units. However, "we no longer have that kind of time at our disposal," he said. "We must be ready at a much earlier date . . . ; we must be practically ready when a war starts."

Advertisers in the Army Navy Air Force Journal support the Armed Forces and are familiar with their requirements.

Designate Army Units To Participate In Nat. Aircraft Show 3 To 5 Sept.

Lt. Col. Edward J. Raff, USA, of the Army Aviation Center, Camp Rucker, Ala., operations officer for the Army demonstration during the Philadelphia National Aircraft Show Sept. 3-4-5 at International Airport has announced a complete roster of installations and units who will participate.

These include:

Ft. Benning, Ga.—506th Transportation Company (Helicopter), 23d Field Artillery Battalion, Pathfinder Team. The Infantry Centers; 152d Transportation Maintenance Detachment, and the Third Division Aviation Detachment.

Ft. Bragg, N. C.—508th Transportation Company (Helicopter), 25th TAAM Company, SKYCAV, and aviation detachments from the 18th Airborne Corps and the 82d Airborne Division.

Ft. Belvoir, Ga.—509th Transportation Company (Helicopter).

Ft. McClellan, Ala.—Demonstration Team, Chemical Corps Training Command.

Camp Rucker, Ala.—Army Aviation Center and 351st Regimental Combat Team.

Additional personnel and support will be furnished by first Army Headquarters.

Maj. William H. Gardiner, USA, of the Transportation Corps Liaison Division, Wright Air Development Center, Dayton, Ohio, will be narrator for the show.

The Army show, based on a mock battle in which the International Airport area will be "re-taken" from the enemy by "flying cavalry" supported by fixed-wing and rotor-aircraft with communications, supply, re-supply, artillery spotter, medical evacuation and transport missions, will feature only those Army craft now in the hands of commanders.

Static exhibits will include the 24th AAA group's NIKE launcher and booster display, paratroop equipment and free-fall and heavy-load supply-parachutes from the Office of the Quartermaster

General, and all operational Army aircraft.

Occupying a star's position in the Army aerial demonstration will be the famed Helicopter Square Dance Team. Members of the team this year, pilot-instructors from the Army Aviation Center all, are 1st Lt. William D. Brooks, 1st Lt. Boych B. Buckner, Chief Warrent Officer Arthur R. Tucker, and Chief Warrant Officer Eldred G. Bourne. Warrant Officer Werdel K. Schug will call the "figures" for the four H-13 Bell 'copters—two dressed like country squires, two like village flirts. CWO Bourne will fly the 'copter which does Bozo the Clown, another Aviation Center specialty.

Capt. William P. Brake, the official "Mr. Helicopter" who flew out 900 wounded during the Korean War and holds the record for medical evacuations, a twin-engine instructor at the Army Aviation School, will do the medical evacuation before the show. Prior to that he will deliver official invitations to the show from the Mayor of Philadelphia to governors of Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

Army Graduates 76 In Aviation Tactics

Seventy-six Army officers were graduated 20 Aug. from the Army Aviation Tactics Course, the Army Aviation School, Camp Rucker, Ala., and were awarded the wings of Army aviators.

Students received basic flight training with the Air Force at San Marcos, Tex., and then completed the course at the Army Aviation School.

Twenty-seven officers completed the Instrument Flight Course, the Army Aviation School, 19 Aug., while 26 other officers completed their training in the Army Helicopter Aviation Tactics Course.

Among the officers graduating from the Instrument Flight Course was Lt. Col. A. L. Robinette, the former director of instruction, the Army Aviation School. Colonel Robinette has been assigned to duty with the Continental Army Command, Ft. Monroe, Va.

Lt. Col. Victor B. Shemwell has been named commanding officer of the Army Aviation School Regiment. He succeeded Lt. Col. Raymond S. Pratt, who has been assigned as deputy assistant commandant, the Army Aviation School. Colonel Shemwell came from West Germany, where he was assigned to the 8th Infantry Division, USAREUR.

MAJ. C. J. SHAFFER, USA, counts his shots as he helped open the National Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio. Major Shaffer, firing an 1862 Tower musket, scored 48 out of 50 points at 100 yards. With him is his daughter, Mary, age 11. He is with Hq. Continental Army Command.

Management Courses Open 7 Sept. At Ft. Monroe

A series of three-week courses in Command Management beginning 7 Sept. will be held at Headquarters Continental Army Command, Ft. Monroe, Va.

The courses, designed to assist officers and selected civilians in discharging management responsibilities with more efficiency, will deal with problems of a nontactical nature. The instruction will aid commanders in handling the technical and human problems involved in directing the work of substantial numbers of military and civilian personnel.

Military applicants for the courses should be members of the Regular Army or a Reserve Component on active duty, with a minimum grade of lieutenant colonel, and having a minimum of two years active duty remaining. Civilians interested in the studies should have a rating of GS-13 or higher, have a security clearance of Secret, and either occupy or be on orders to occupy a supervisory position with management responsibilities.

MORE GET-UP-AND-GO FOR TAC COMBAT CARGO USAF HERCULES

Every job assigned to the Tactical Air Command requires one special talent: mobility... more "get-up-and-go."

TAC's new combat cargo plane, the C-130 Hercules, represents a new era in mobility. It's the first military transport with turbo-prop power. It's fast—faster than many commercial transports. It's eager—able to take off and land in less than 300 yards. Designed for rugged and robust work, it can use even improvised runways.

First assignment for Hercules: providing a mobile air-lift at a moment's notice for TAC's 18th Air Force. Hercules will fly cargo and men farther, faster and at less cost than any other combat transport. The job of quick resupply is a good example (and just one of Hercules' dozen or more prime missions). After dropping 64 paratroops, or landing supplies or 90 infantrymen in combat zones, the Hercules can hustle back to advance base, load up with some 20 tons of food, ammunition, medical supplies, and deliver them where front-line fighters need them. Then, converting in a matter of minutes to a hospital plane, a single Hercules can evacuate up to 74 litter patients.

This takes get-up-and-go. TAC's Hercules has it. Designed by Lockheed, the Hercules is now in production at Government Aircraft Plant No. 6 in Marietta, Ga., first U. S. turbo-prop production line for transports.

New Tax Law For Retired

THE JOURNAL article on the new tax credit recently authorized for retired military personnel under 65 (THE JOURNAL, 20 Aug.), contained the statement: "In approving the legislation, the Congress made it retroactive only to 31 Dec. 1953, which means that the credit will be allowed this year but not for 1953." In both instances, "1953" should have read "1954."

Col. Kier Named Air Show Proj. Officer

Col. Avery R. Kier, USMC, Commanding Officer, MCAS, Quantico, Va., has been designated Project Officer for Marine Corps participation in the National Aircraft Show which is to be held in Philadelphia 3, 4 and 5 Sept.

The Colonel will be assisted by Lt. Col. R. R. Reed, USMC, also stationed at MCAS, Quantico, who serves as Operations Officer, and by Maj. Rosco Bianchi, USMC, from the 2dMAW, Cherry Point, N. C.

Air Launched Rocket In Upper Air Research

Using rockets vertically launched from aircraft, the Office of Naval Research has demonstrated the feasibility of another method of upper atmosphere research, the Navy has announced.

In tests at the Naval Air Station, Chincoteague, Va., rockets launched vertically at 30,000 feet from a Navy Banshee fighter plane reached an altitude of approximately 90,000 feet. This new rocket-aircraft method, called "Rockair," will afford a practical and inexpensive tool for research observations at high altitudes, it was said.

The plane-carried rockets do not attain the altitudes reached by large rockets. During the recent feasibility test, only cosmic ray studies were made. There are, it was said, however, many possible applications of the new plane-rocket method.

The system is expected to inspire intensified research in the upper atmosphere by permitting research opportunities for synoptic measurements not now feasible due to costs and facilities involved in previous programs. It will be used to obtain measurements of ambient air temperatures, air densities, ozone concentrations and high altitude winds. Its use to obtain synoptic measurements at low costs over a broad geographical area during the forthcoming Geophysical Year has been considered.

The Navy has been using balloons for high-atmosphere research since 1947, when its Skyhook program was developed. The chief advantage of the new plane-rocket method over the balloon-rocket technique is the controlled-directional launching possible from aircraft.

River Names Given To 48 Rocket Ships

The Navy has given names to 48 LSMR's (Landing Ship, Medium, Rocket).

Effective 1 October, all of the ships will bear the names of United States rivers. The word "River" will be carried as an official part of each vessel's name. For example, the only one of the LSMR's now on active status, the LSMR-536, becomes the USS White River.

Previously, the Navy has used the Indian names of rivers for its tankers and oilers. The names, however, were not followed by the word "river." None of the Indian names is duplicated on the new LSMR list.

Originally, the ships were designated LSM's (Landing Ship, Medium) and were designed to fill the Navy's need for a smaller troop-carrier than an LST. Later they were modified and fitted out with rocket launchers and used for close-in support of invasion troops. They took part in many amphibious assaults in both the Atlantic and the Pacific.

Here's a list of the names assigned to the LSMR's:

401—Big Black	513—Laramie

ALL the services take off their hats to UNITED SERVICES

Wherever Armed Forces officers gather throughout the world, you are likely to hear praise for United Services Automobile Association. That's because USAA has offered automobile insurance at cost to officers since 1922.

Last year, for example, almost six million dollars were paid in dividends. During its 33 years of operation USAA has paid out in claims and returned to policyholders over 75 million dollars.

Since USAA insures only preferred risks—commissioned and warrant officers; sells by mail, cutting branch office and other overhead expense; and is efficiently managed by active and retired Armed Forces officers, great savings are passed onto each policyholder by this non-profit organization. In 1954, USAA policyholders in the States saved 44% of the standard manual premiums.

USAA's low-cost operations are not at the expense of prompt and efficient settlement of claims, however. Claims are settled quickly even in the most out-of-the-way places.

So whether you are serving in the United States, its possessions and territories; Canada, Cuba and the Canal Zone; Japan, the Philippines and certain U.S. military bases in the Pacific, as well as Western Continental Europe, you can enjoy the protection of a USAA policy.

Let this oldest, largest and strongest non-profit insurance organization serving the armed forces officer begin serving and saving for you. Insure with confidence. Insure today with USAA!

USSR Rate Of Air Progress Is Faster Than Ours, Gen. Twining Tells Air Show

General Nathan F. Twining, Air Force Chief of Staff, declares that the United States is behind Russia in rate of aviation progress.

In an article prepared for the National Aircraft Show at Philadelphia International Airport 3-5 Sept., General Twining added, however, that the United States still retains superiority over the Soviet Union in air power, production and quality.

"Ten years ago Soviet technology and aviation industry were, compared to ours, in the wilderness," General Twining said. "Today, they have produced many thousands of advanced jet fighters and thousands of high performance jet light bombers. Now they are producing intercontinental jet bombers similar to our own. No one can deny that the Soviet aviation industry has made startling progress."

"This is not to say that Soviet air power now surpasses our own," General Twining wrote. "It does not. This does not mean that the Soviets can outproduce us. They cannot. Nor can anyone say that Soviet aircraft are more advanced than ours; for they are not. However, there is one way that the Soviets are ahead of us. They are ahead in rate of progress."

General Twining also said it was "equally obvious" that the United States must meet this challenge with "startling progress of our own."

Featured events of the Air Show will include the Bendix and General Electric coast-to-coast jet races. There also will be scores of other competitions and aerial displays at the show.

New Air Force Secretary Donald A. Quarles will make one of his first public appearances 2 Sept. when he addresses the annual Aviation Industries Association dinner for foreign Air Attaches prior to the actual opening of the Aircraft Show. Sixty-two foreign attaches have been invited to attend the banquet and the air show.

First Award of CONADs New Plaque Goes to Ground Controller And a Pilot

To emphasize the controller-pilot team concept so necessary to successful air defense operations, the Air Defense Command has presented for the first time its newly-designed "We Point With Pride" plaque to a ground controller and a pilot.

General Earle E. Partridge, commander-in-chief of the Continental Air Defense Command, personally awarded the plaques to 1st Lts. David A. Peavy of the 789th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, Omaha, Nebr., and James G. Taylor, 84th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron, Hamilton AFB, Calif.

The new plaque replaces a previous one awarded only to pilots. It will be presented monthly to a controller or pilot for outstanding achievement resulting in the saving of aircraft and lives.

Lt. Taylor received the award for a perfect dead stick landing of his F-94C after an intense engine vibration and flameout.

Lt. Peavy won the award for vectoring

The fully qualified method of selection will be utilized.

Officers who desire to submit information concerning their qualifications must assure that their communications reach Headquarters before the board meets. Such messages should be sent to Headquarters, USAF, Attn: Promotion and Separation Division.

MAJ. GEN. GEORGE G. FINCH, USAF, (left), 14th Air Force Commander, and Brig. Gen. Stanley T. Wray, WRAMA Deputy Commander, cut the ribbons at the official opening of the new and modern Exchange Grill at Robins AFB, Ga. The two generals also cut a decorative cake and were the first to be served in the new grill.

Revive Famed Fighter Group to Save Tradition

The 78th Fighter Group of World War II fame has returned to Hamilton AFB, Calif., in a move by Continental Air Defense Command to bring pride and prestige to the combat ready units of the nation's air defense forces.

While the transfer is a paper transaction, Brig. Gen. Monro MacCloskey, USAF, Commander of the 28th Air Division, made it clear that while no change of combat strength was involved, the redesignation of units was not just a "numbers game" without meaning or purpose, but a positive step to rescue for our organizations a tradition and history to which they, as combat ready units, are entitled.

A1C Reed Cops Singles Title; Col. Powell Top Sr.

For the third straight year, A1C Whitney Reed of Tinker AFB, Okla., won the singles championship in the Air Force World-Wide Tennis Tournament.

The tournament, held 15-21 Aug. at the Army-Navy Country Club, Arlington, Va., fell into two divisions, open and senior, the latter restricted to players over 40 years of age.

Airman Reed took the open singles championship after defeating 1st Lt. Richard Macy, Evreux Air Base, France, 6-1, 6-2, 6-8 and 8-6.

The open doubles title went to Cpl. Hugh Ditzler and Lt. Ernest Schultz, both of Elmendorf AFB, Alaska.

In the senior division, Col. Nicholas Powell beat Col. Frederick Moore for the singles title. Colonel Powell is based at Hq., USAF, and Colonel Moore is stationed at the Industrial College, Washington, D. C. Doubles championship in the senior division was won by Colonel Powell and Col. Harris Hull, of Hq., USAF. They defeated Col. George Croker, Hq., USAF, and Colonel Moore.

Airman Reed was presented the Lewis Memorial Cup by Maj. Gen. Millard Lewis, Deputy Director of Intelligence, USAF. The cup, named in honor of General Lewis' mother, is a rotating trophy. A replica of the cup also was awarded to Reed. Also awarded were gold rings to all of the winners and silver rings to the runnersups.

Wright-Pat. Deputy CO

Col. Robert M. Batterson, jr., has been named Deputy Commander of Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, succeeding Col. Frank N. Graves who is leaving to become Deputy Commander of the 314th Air Division in the Far East.

Colonel Batterson comes from Lisbon, Portugal, where he had been Chief of the Air Force Section of the U. S. Military Advisory Group since May of 1952.

"Marvelous Work" of Services. Throughout the period of the disastrous floods which swept New England and Pennsylvania last week end, the rescue and relief work of all components of the Armed Services stood out sharply. Now in the preservation of health and the restoration of transportation they are continuing their humanitarian functions.

All governors of the states involved have told of the fine deeds performed by the Services to relieve suffering and carry on the work of rescue. President Eisenhower in his statement on his plans for flood relief pointed out that: "The Defense Department in particular has been busily engaged in this work and from all states I have had reports of the marvelous work they have done." (The President himself was taken to the flood areas by, and surveyed them from the air in, aircraft of the Air Force.)

From all areas have come many reports of lives saved by men and equipment of the Armed Forces. The military helicopters, particularly fitted for rescue work, played a heavy and conspicuous role. Second Army headquarters sent 10 helicopters from Ft. Meade, Md., to airlift 324 marooned train passengers from Cresco to Scranton, Pa. As they were so engaged 10 military buses from the Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot arrived to help. Amphibious Army Ducks rescued stranded campers near Newburgh, N. Y. Second Army also sent water purification units to provide safe drinking water in some Pennsylvania towns. The Navy, National Guard and Civil Defense volunteers evacuated 1,000 persons, including many children, from island camps in Delaware. At Naugatuck, Conn., helicopters of the Air Force's Air-Sea Rescue Service and from the Navy shuttled back and forth from house tops to remove stranded residents to waiting buses. Ten helicopters at the Sikorsky Bridgeport plant were manned by Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps and Company pilots and put into the rescue work. In one day they removed 297 persons from places of danger. Everywhere the Coast Guard was present putting its specialized skills and experience against the forces of the flood. In all the states the Air National Guard pitched in with their planes and skilled men while ground National Guard units helped in the rescues and patrolled to keep order and prevent looting.

As the waters subside the Army engineers have been at work replacing lost bridges and opening roads. Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker flew to the stricken area and has lent every effort to use his forces for relief work.

When final reports are compiled the record will be astounding. It will show that the organization, training, equipment, skill, devotion and bravery of the Armed Services have again made a glorious mark in the annals of rescue work.

The Code and Tradition. There is a relationship, not pointed but nevertheless definite, between the newly expressed Code of Conduct (published in full in last week's JOURNAL) and the increasing efforts of all the Armed Services to raise morale and pride by recalling and emphasizing the history and traditions of American fighting forces.

The Code, as President Eisenhower specifically points out in his Executive Order, sets up standards to which every member of the Armed Forces is expected to measure up "while he is in combat or in captivity." Growing, as it did, out of the study on the treatment and conduct of prisoners of war, it particularly emphasizes that a fighting man must continue to fight the enemy in captivity just as he does on the field of battle. He must place his trust in his God and his country and resist enemy captors to the limit of his physical and mental capabilities.

The principles embodied in the Code are as old as the Nation. Realization and study of the history and background of our Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps instills into today's men the pride of their forebears and their outfits, their service and their country and tends to lead them to emulate the age-old standards set forth in the new Code of Conduct.

Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) challenges the new Code as lacking "anything substantial." But his main complaint seems to be in the danger

Sub-Standard Housing

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

Thanks for mentioning the "sub-standard quarters" bill as one of the measures which Congress failed to approve before it went home for the Summer. My only suggestion is that you could have given this news greater prominence.

If the Congressmen and Senators were going home to the shacks for which some of us in the Service have to forfeit our entire quarters allowance, they probably would have stuck it out for a few more days until this needed legislation was approved.

I hope, and I'm sure many others agree, that you will continue to press for passage of this measure.

"Force Out" Pay

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

As discussed in THE JOURNAL issues of 23 and 30 July, the Reserve "Force Out" Pay bill doesn't make much sense insofar as fairness and justice are concerned.

You report that the plan would affect almost 17,000 Reserve officers if it was made retroactive to fiscal year '52 when the first large-scale force-outs began. In the 30 July issue, you report that the House Armed Services Committee approved a retroactive date of 1 July 1954, making about 7,581 officers (counting those still to be released this year) eligible for the benefits.

This means, of course, that 10,000 of us who were involuntarily released earlier than 1 July 1954 will get nothing, despite the fact that we faced exactly the same problems in adjusting to civilian life as those released later.

In my own case, it was necessary for me to mortgage my home in order to meet the financial problems created while I was trying to find a job in private industry.

Congress had better take another look at this bill.

MAJ., USAFR

Penalized by R A Status

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

In July 1947 I accepted a Regular Army commission, having been selected under the integration program. Even though originally commissioned on 16 Sept. 1943 I accepted an RA original date of commission as 14 Feb. 1944, my 21st birthday, since the regulation stated that commissioned service prior to attaining the age of 21 would not count. This loss of credit for service performed capably during time of war has since resulted in a delay of several months in promotion to Captain (both temporary and permanent) and consequently a long delay in promotion to Major. Finally the multitude of people with date of rank as Captain of 27 Sept. 1950 (when I finally made it) became eligible for gold leaves. As expected, the lists came out with precedence established by total length of commissioned service. Here I thought that my total service might be counted since these are temporary promotions and RA date of rank should make no difference. What happened? As before, my pre-21 time was discarded and instead of being promoted in S.O. 153 as I had expected, I was left off that order and also S.O. 155 and S.O. 156 while scores of officers with less time appeared on these orders and are now wearing leaves.

I have attempted to be philosophical about the situation but this is only one of many instances where people junior in service have gone up by me in rank. For having accepted a Regular Army commission I have been penalized several hundred dollars in pay with prospects only for more of the same.

I cannot argue with a law that requires RA commissioned service to be after the age of 21. However, in this instance I see no reason why my total service could not be counted, giving me a date of rank of 3 Aug. and allowing me to hold my own for a change without another flood of people rushing by me.

POW Rules Helpful?

Editor, THE JOURNAL:

As two Servicemen who are vitally interested, we were concerned at Senator Estes Kefauver's comments about the new code for prisoners of war. We read THE JOURNAL article and the Senator's views at the same time.

As the Senator points out, the new POW code may be just dandy for "club" rules, but it seems lacking in instructive material which will be helpful to any who have the ill fortune to be captured.

Most U. S. soldiers who are captured by the Communists probably enter their captivity with a firm resolve to do nothing which will in any way disgrace either them, their uniform or their country. Yet, we have seen how these resolutions are brutally ripped apart by the atrocity techniques employed by the Communists.

What we need is some greater assurance that we will be soundly prepared to resist. It's not enough to say that we will do our best because our best may not be good enough.

We don't know the answer.

TWO SOLDIERS

that some returned prisoners of war may have to face prosecution. The Senator expressed a hope that the Department will "undertake a more thorough study of the treatment of returned prisoners of war and their needs for the future," adding a veiled threat that, as a member of the Armed Services Committee, he is not "satisfied" with the Report.

The Report, however, asserts that there has not been a single prosecution in any case where it was established that there had been any sort of torture, mental or physical, of the man involved.

It is not likely that the Senator, nor the military Services, would condone any POW who gave aid or comfort to his enemy captors without the pressure of mental or physical devices, nor would they condemn one who succumbs to such devices beyond the limit of his endurance.

IN THE JOURNAL

10 Years Ago—From Chunking this week came word that Lt. Gen. Johathan M. Wainwright, 61-year-old hero of Corregidor, together with four of the fliers who accompanied Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle on the now famous raid over Tokyo in 1942, have been found by American parachute teams dropped from the air on Japanese-occupied territory in China.

50 Years Ago—The resignation of Lord Curzon, Viceroy of India, as the result of long conflict between himself and Gen. Lord Kitchener, commander-in-chief of the military forces of India, is an event of supreme importance to British interests in Asia. It signifies that Kitchener has won his stubborn fight against a dual control over the Indian Army, and that his great work in the reorganization of that body has been approved by the imperial government.

90 Years Ago—The project of presenting General Sherman a residence, as a well merited testimonial from his fellow-citizens in St. Louis, has so far succeeded that the sum of thirty thousand dollars has been raised for the worthy project by the committee having the matter in charge. Finding some difficulty in the selection of a residence at present, the committee has deposited the amount to the credit of General Sherman in one of the St. Louis banking institutions.

Ramey AFB Is U.S.'s Military Air Link Between North and South America

BY BRIG. GEN. BERTRAM C. HARRISON,
USAF

Commander 72d Strategic Reconnaissance
Wing (H), Ramey AFB, Puerto Rico

RAMEY Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, is the Caribbean outpost of Strategic Air Command. The home of the 72d Strategic Reconnaissance Wing (H), it enjoys a number of distinctions that set the base apart from many other Air Force Bases, not the least of which is the wonderful balmy climate.

The key to the Ramey mission within SAC lies in its geographical location. The 72d Wing has a capability of performing its Emergency War Plan mission directly from Ramey if that should ever become necessary.

RAMEY IS THE MILITARY AIR LINK between North and South America, and is a terminal for MATS between the U. S., South and Central America. By air 996 miles east South-east of Miami, Ramey's roost for its Convair RB-36s is approximately one-third the distance between Hq SAC and the forward staging bases in North Africa.

Ramey is also the home of the 28th Air Rescue Squadron, MATS, which lists a long string of search and rescue successes throughout the Caribbean area, including helicopter succor to Haiti last October following Hurricane Hazel.

CONSTRUCTION WAS STARTED at Ramey in 1939. During World War II, the base was known as Borinquen Field and used as a route stop to Africa and as an anti-submarine patrol base. In September 1948 the field was renamed Ramey Air Force Base in honor of Brig. Gen. Howard K. Ramey, commander of the Fifth Bomber Command, who lost his life on a bomber mission in the Southwest Pacific in late 1942.

SAC took over in 1950, and in 1952 work was begun to expand the base to accommodate RB-36 aircraft which arrived late that year.

The mission of the 72d Strat Recon Wing is to provide the Air Force and other services with long range Strategic Reconnaissance using photographic and electronic means.

Last year, however, the wing added a bombardment capability and now trains crews in both reconnaissance and bombing techniques.

Brig. Gen. Harrison

To maintain a keen edge in training, a new Radar Bomb Scoring (RBS) site has been built in San Juan, 85 miles east of Ramey. This permits Ramey crews to do air work without having to fly long hours to RBS sites in the South-east U.S. Stateside SAC units, including several B-47 wings, also use the new Puerto Rico RBS facility.

The wing has been considered combat ready for about a year and a half and regularly deploys to North Africa to maintain a high level of proficiency in moving quickly.

IN ONE MISSION THIS YEAR the 72d sent 15 aircraft east over the Atlantic to simulated targets in France. After making high altitude bomb runs the aircraft turned south to the Mediterranean and flew to Nouasseur Air Depot in French Morocco. Here they were met by the wing deployment team which had been ferried over by SAC Support Squadron Douglas C-124s. A portion of the deployment team interrogated the crews and sent in combat reports while another segment of the team performed post flight maintenance on the aircraft.

Two aircraft then proceeded east to Dharan Air Base in Saudi Arabia to exercise the facility there. The other 13 aircraft returned to Ramey. Within a few days after the completion of this Unit Simulated Combat mission, the wing sent 10 aircraft to Travis AFB, Calif., where crews participated in Operation Teapot, an atomic test.

WHEN SAC MOVED A SEGMENT of its global mission to Ramey in 1950, supply was a critical factor. In October of 1952 when the first RB-36s arrived, base supply was loaded with 88,000 line items of supply. About 80 per cent of these items were B-50 spares and parts, or war surplus items accumulated at Ramey as a result of the inactivation of other bases in the Caribbean area. At first, aircraft out of commission for parts (AOCP) rate was at times as high as 50 per cent, and aircraft not fully equipped (ANFE) rate remained at 100 per cent for many months.

Flushing the supply pipeline and streamlining of base supply operation was begun with help from Second Air Force, Hq SAC, Air Materiel Command and the Air Materiel areas. After months of study, a plan of airlift of aircraft spares direct from the depots was approved. As a result Ramey established direct requisitioning to prime depots, eliminating from the supply channel a port control agency and all zonal depots. Since B-36 engines (R-4360s), for example, are critical items, shortening the pipeline time for requisition and overhaul time potentially permits a lower Air Force wide inventory on that type engine.

THE RAMEY "RED HEAD" PROJECT in 1954 reduced AOCP rate to an average of 3.9 per cent per month. Routine requisitioning pipeline time was reduced from 250 days to 30 days; AOCP requisition time from 30 to 7.5 days. It is estimated that $7,000,000 will be saved annually from these reductions.

In the meantime the number of line items in Base Supply has been cut from 88,000 to 27,000 items.

While the supply and pipeline system was being overhauled to support SAC's global operations, a vast amount of permanent type construction was started to help men and machines do their jobs.

The single-strip runway was widened and strengthened to accommodate max-load RB-36s. A rapid refueling system, additional bulk fuel storage facilities and an addition to the base power plant were built. A 575-unit Wherry housing project was completed for personnel of the growing Ramey community.

Seven modern "SAC-type" barracks for airmen have been built, and this year three ultra-modern, metal-louvered Bachelor Officer Quarters have replaced the tired terminated BOQS hastily constructed for heavy traffic during World War II.

CONSTRUCTION IS NOW IN PROGRESS on a new $185,000 base chapel, a training building, flight-line fire house, hospital supply warehouse and permanent quarters for veterinary services.

Ramey is a permanent installation, the only one so designated within SAC that is located outside the Continental U.S. It is a continental community of about 10,000 men, women and children.

Ramey has 575 Wherry-type housing units and 702 government quarters on the base. Another 700 families live off the base. Military strength is about 4800, including a WAF detachment of about 100 women, the only military women in Puerto Rico. About 800 civilians also are assigned.

Over 600 Ramey shoppers market at the commissary daily, spending over $8,000 a day and selecting food purchases from an inventory of over $450,000.

THE FAMILY ASPECT of the Ramey Air Force community is emphasized by a well-rounded religious activity program. Four Protestant Chaplains and one Catholic Chaplain are assigned. Over 750 persons attend the Ramey Sunday school, including over 650 children each Sunday, making this activity one of the largest in the Air Force.

The Ramey school built in 1952 at a cost of over $600,000 already is bulging at the seams with about 1300 students, mostly in the grammar grades. This year the Ramey High School graduated its largest class with eight seniors receiving diplomas.

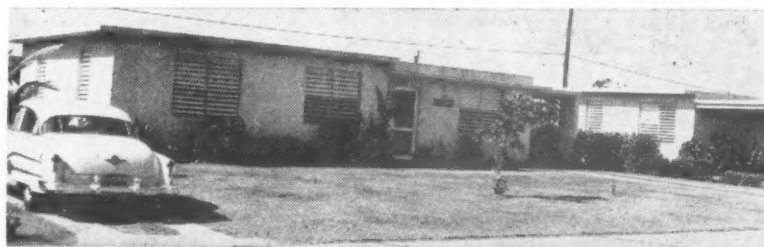

Isolated 85 miles west of San Juan, the base is largely self-sufficient for off-duty activity. Golfers enjoy at Ramey the only 18-hole golf course in Puerto Rico. Horseback riding, swimming, tennis, salt and fresh water fishing also are popular sports.

Unique at Ramey is the Spear-Fishing Club whose 82 members don foot-fins, face masks and aqua-lungs to go prowling in pairs along the coast to shaft pompano, grouper, sea bass, and lobster. A recent spear-fishing mission bagged a 298-lb. jewfish whose fried filets yielded over $300 to an Air Force Aid Society fish fry.

ON THE SOCIAL SCENE, Ramey's three clubs maintain a busy calendar of events. The Officers Club is one of the most beautiful in the Air Force. The Airmen's Club recently added a new $44,000 ballroom and plans have been approved for a new club for Ramey NCOs, a long-felt need.

For all their busy work schedule and wealth of facilities at Ramey, Air Force families are well integrated in island affairs. They participate in Puerto Rico charity drives and in 1954 contributed more than $5,000 to the island cancer drive. Clubs and church groups regularly support island church, hospital, orphanage, Boys and Girls Scout activities with the open heart and helping hand of the American serviceman everywhere. And of course Ramey men and women shop and enjoy the fabulously rich colors of the picturesque, historic island.

Poised in Puerto Rico for any global mission, the men and women at Ramey perform a key defense job in the midst of scenery, facilities and opportunity unrivaled in the Air Force.

RAMEY AFB, PUERTO RICO has 575 wherry-type housing units as pictured above, and 762 government quarters on the base.

Col. Creek Will Direct Army Air Mobility Gp.

Lt. Col. Roy E. Creek, USA, has been named to succeed Lt. Col. Sammie N. Homan, USA, as director of the Airborne Army Aviation Department's Air Mobility Group at The Infantry School, Ft. Benning, Ga.

Colonel Creek was former executive officer of the department. Colonel Homan, assigned to Fort Campbell, Ky., will become a regimental commander with the 11th Airborne Division.

In his new post, Colonel Creek will direct the development of doctrine and technique of employment of the Army's aviation units, both fixed-wing and helicopters.

MEMO For Journal Readers

GEN. MAXWELL TAYLOR is pressing the fight in Pentagon budget circles for supplemental troop authorizations to handle the 18-year-old Reserve training program. It's estimated that roughly 1500 trainers will be necessary for each 5000 trainees. The CofS pointed up this problem virtually the moment that he took over the Army's No. 1 job.

THE ARMY'S M/SGT. PROBLEM is causing increasing concern—at the Pentagon and in the field. Unless something is done about it, there's a chance the Army will make more new generals than E-7's in the next year. One solution that is being talked up in top echelon councils would be contingent on Defense Dept. and Budget Bureau approval. This plan calls for asking Congress to vote funds for additional E-7 slots to take care of Reserve officers leaving EAD and who are eligible for master sergeant rank. ARMY OFFICIALS FEEL CONFIDENT that Congress, given the facts of the situation, would vote the extra money to (1) safeguard enlisted promotions and (2) assure E-7 spots for Reserve officers.

ARMY AIRCRAFT marking—yellow lettering on OD background—is hard to distinguish even up close. For easy identification Army has been testing "high visibility" markings. Many like large WHITE block letters. Good bet is that the proposed new markings will be tried out on the Army planes and copters in next week's National Aircraft Show in Philadelphia. (Newest Army aviation gimmick: a seven-helicopter "honor guard" was part of the military honors accorded Under Sec. Finucane on his recent visit to the Army Aviation Center, Camp Rucker, Ga.)

BIG BATTLESHIPS of the Navy—once the backbone of the Fleet—may be converted into supply ships to meet the one-stop replenishment concept for carrier task forces. Capt. Arthur F. Spring, USN, who once served on the USS Missouri, writes in the current issue of the U. S. Naval Institute Proceedings that it would take a ship the size of the "Big Mo." With her 16-inch turrets and barbets removed she could carry supplies for an entire task force—and fast!

INTERSERVICE transfers of commissioned officers (with the consent of both Departments involved) will be sought by the DoD at the next session of Congress. Dept. already has authority to shift medical officers from one service to another.

AFTER THE USAF ACADEMY graduates its first class and the number of USMA and USNA grads getting USAF commissions is cut in half, there will be a sharp decline in the number of Air Force officers serving as instructors at West Point and Annapolis. Now there are 85 USAF officers at the Military Academy and 25 at the Naval Academy.

PEANUTS have been giving MSTs a bad time, but the problem has been solved. Many accidents resulted from passengers discarding the two halves of the tin cans which were stepped or sat upon by others. Then, many GI's cut their fingers trying to reshape the covers into ash trays. An appeal to one of the big peanut packers resulted in the design of a new "coaster-top" can with rounded top and almost fool-proof bottom. MSTs peanuts now come in the new style package, which shortly will be distributed nationally. Cost to manufacturer for change-over was put at half a million dollars.

RETIREMENT of Lt. Gen. Bryant L. Boatner, former materiel chief USAF, has been ordered effective 31 Aug. The post of commander, Air University, earmarked for this outstanding officer, remains unfilled.

LT. GEN. JOHN H. COLLIER, USA, is seen as a top prospect for command of the Fourth Army at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex. An armor expert, General Collier fought with the Second Armored Division from French Morocco in 1942 until its triumphant entry into Berlin. He now commands the I Corps in Korea, prior to which he was CG of the Armored Center and School at Ft. Knox. It is likely that 4th Army top billet will be reserved for armor officers.

DoD HAS GIVEN PRIORITY to Warner Bros. to produce first commercial movie involving B-52s. Col. Beirne Lay, Jr., USAFR, has producer-writer contract for picture tentatively called "Flight Line Chief." As in Warner's earlier "Strategic Air Command," Gen. LeMay, SAC's CinC, is said to be giving close attention to new flicker.

HURRICANES CONNIE AND DIANE drove three Navy ZSG-3 blimps from Glynnco NAS, near Brunswick, Ga., to the Army's Ft. Benning twice within four days. But it was a welcome visit for the soldiers at the Infantry School who helped with the mooring and were hosts to the Navy crews. Army aviators took the Navy men for flights in their helicopters and light fixed-wing aircraft, while the Navy in turn took soldiers up in their blimps. (Other Navy blimps went to Gunter AFB, Ala., making it a three-way service deal.)

AIMED AT STIMULATING industrial mobilization planning, a series of informal memoranda soon will go out from Asst. Def. Sec. Pike's office. Special attention is being directed to survival-type weapons and other first priority items so that orders for such mobilization requirements will become virtually "self-triggering."

15 YEARS A MARINE, Capt. Charles F. Collins of Detroit, has been sworn in as an Air Force Reservist with the 10th Air Force at Selfridge. Collins, who won 2 DSCs and 2 Air Medals as a pilot with the 1st Marine Air Wing in Korea, says he decided to join "the outfit that gave the orders"—the 10th MAF was under the 5th AF in Korea. (An "Immediate Release" and photo was dispatched to notify the press of this development.)

IRON CURTAIN representatives have been invited by the Foreign Liaison Office of the Air Force to attend the National Aircraft Show at Philadelphia Labor Day week end. Asked to witness the Air Force's 75 minute aerial show and display of 200 USAF aircraft, plus Navy, Marine Corps and Army demonstrations, are: Gen. Aleksei Antonov and Col. Eng Bogatryev of USSR; Col. Korcak of Czechoslovakia, and Maj. Csapo of Hungary. Bet they'll be there!

SIX MORE NAVY CAPTAINS could have been selected by the Navy board which named 529 commanders for promotion to four-stripe rank. In answer to a Journal query about the large number of selections made from among those below the zone (more than five percent of the total number selected), the Navy said, "In the precept, the Secretary of the Navy authorized a board to select 535 captains—restricted and unrestricted Line officers." THE NAVY BOARD'S ACTION marks the first time since passage of the Officer Personnel Act that the maximum number of officers has been selected from below the zone. Of the total officers authorized to be selected for captain, commander and lieutenant commander, Navy boards are permitted to select up to five percent from among those junior to the zone anchor man. The latest board named 27 juniors.

Polio Shots Available For O'Seas Children

Poliomyelitis vaccine for all dependent children of federal personnel overseas, both civilian and military, has been allocated to the Department of Defense for distribution through its medical channels, Dr. Frank B. Berry, Assistant Secretary of Defense (Health and Medical), announces.

The Armed Services Medical Procurement Agency will procure all vaccine used in the program. The ASMPA is an interservice body set up in 1945 as a central purchasing office for all Defense Department requirements for medical supplies and equipment.

"All vaccine obtained for use in the Department of Defense inoculation program will have been pre-tested according to the new, rigid standards established by the U. S. Public Health Service for safety and effectiveness," Dr. Berry said.

The Instruction charges the Military Departments with establishing "geographic and age priorities to ensure equitable distribution and administration of poliomyelitis vaccine within the limitations of practicability imposed by military procurement and distribution systems and by movement of personnel."

The Defense program will parallel that in civilian communities of the United States, limiting vaccination at the present to children from five through nine years of age. The Department estimates there are 450,000 children in this age group. Exceptions to this policy will be made only in certain overseas areas where there is a higher incidence of the disease.

The vaccine will be given to all eligible children on a voluntary basis.

INDUSTRY IN DEFENSE

Navy Clause Will Limit Payments in Advance

The Navy has issued new instructions designed "to eliminate the need for substantial refunds" from contractors holding incentive and price-redetermination contracts.

A new clause is to be inserted in all such new and existing contracts by 1 Nov., 1955.

Navy fiscal officials say that some contractors by making "end runs" around present regulations have been receiving funds in excess of their costs while the contract is being performed and that final settlement of contracts is often delayed because substantial refunds are necessary. The new limit of 105% at any one time is expected to solve such problems. All types of payments such as progress payments and other advances are included.

The new clause reads as follows:

"Notwithstanding any other provision of this contract until final price revision has been made in accordance with this clause, the total payments under this contract shall not at any time exceed 105 per cent of the contractor's total costs incurred in the performance hereof as certified by the contractor to be reasonable in amount and properly allowable to this contract."

Defense officials pointed out that Secretary Wilson had issued directives last Spring limiting progress payments to 75 to 90 per cent of costs and requiring refunds for "over payments" to contractors. Study of the problem is now being made and there is a possibility that a directive similar to the Navy instruction might be issued covering all types of fiscal advances to contractors that would apply to all service contracts. Army and Air Force fiscal officials are known to be considering similar instructions to their procurement officers pending the formation of an overall defense policy.

The new Navy clause is to apply to all new contracts of the incentive and price-redetermination type and by amendment to all such existing types, and to all definitive contracts replacing or superseding letter contracts.

Buy-Rental Housing Plan Offered by Firm

A group of former servicemen have come up with a service for providing reassigned military families with housing in advance.

The new firm is incorporated under the name of United Services Realty Association. Its home office is in San Antonio, Texas, but the company plans to establish a nationwide chain of real estate firms which would locate housing facilities for service families moving into new areas.

The firm is primarily interested in having the Service man buy a house at his ZI station that is rentable to another Service man (who may not want to buy for many reasons). The Service-man-owner may thus build up an equity and estate of real estate to be liquidated upon his retirement.

The house-finding plan works like this: A serviceman first has to obtain a courtesy card from the Texas firm. When he gets orders for a new assignment in this country, he contacts United Services Realty and explains his housing needs.

United Services then gets in touch with one of its affiliates in the area where the serviceman is being assigned, and arrangements are made to line up property so that by the time the service family arrives, the requested housing will be ready for approval and occupancy.

The local firm handling the transaction would get a commission from the apartment owner or house seller, a portion of which would be sent back to the Texas firm.

A serviceman selling a house would be required to pay the usual real estate commission.

SMALLEST walkie-talkie FM radio—a transistorized instrument which can be carried in shirt pocket and provides two-way communication over a quarter-mile—has been developed by RCA. Experimental transceiver, designed for military communications, is being field-tested by Signal Corps. Above, Pfc. John McBride, 61st Inf. Regt., Ft. Carson, Colo., listens to "battle instructions" over tiny receiver unit strapped to helmet.

Tiny 15-Oz., 2-Way Radio Tested at Ft. Carson

The smallest walkie-talkie FM radio ever built—a transistorized instrument tiny enough to be carried in a shirt pocket, yet powerful enough for two-way communication over a quarter-mile range—has been developed experimentally by the Radio Corporation of America, it has been announced by Theodore A. Smith, Vice-President and General Manager, RCA Engineering Products Division.

The Signal Corps has purchased a quantity of the developmental walkie-talkie radios (transceivers) for field tests and evaluation as communications devices for squads and other small tactical military groups in the field. Tests are being conducted by the Operations Research Office, at Ft. Carson, Colo.

The ultra-miniature FM transceiver, designed for military communications in the 45-to-50 megacycle band, features a receiver which is small enough to store in a vest pocket, Mr. Smith said. The receiver could be produced as an independent unit for one-way communication applications, to link, for example, a platoon or squad leader with individual soldiers.

A completely self-contained and self-powered radio, the RCA transistorized transceiver houses a receiver-transmitter, microphone-earphone, collapsible antenna, and a battery in a single compact assembly which weighs only 15 ounces and approximates a small tobacco tin in size. It measures only 5½ inches high, 3 inches wide, and 1 inch deep.

Navy's Picket Blimps Get G-E Search Radars

General Electric's Light Military Electronic Equipment Department is supplying high power airborne search radars for the Navy's new ZPG-2W radar picket blimps.

An advantage of the blimp-borne radar is its ability to detect low-flying planes at much greater distances than ground or ship radars, according to H. F. Konig, general manager of the LMEE Department. In some cases, a blimp radar could detect a low-flying plane at almost twice the distance of a ground radar, he said.

The ZPG-2W blimps, built by the Goodyear Aircraft Corp., Akron, Ohio, can remain aloft on patrol several days.

G-D Will Enlarge Its Stromberg-Carlson Div.

A broad expansion of the West Coast activities of the Stromberg-Carlson Division of General Dynamics Corporation has been announced by John Jay Hopkins, board chairman and president of General Dynamics.

Mr. Hopkins said that the expansion will be two-fold:

In San Diego, Stromberg-Carlson will take over from the corporation's Convair Division the production of the charactron tube, a means of displaying electronically communications or computer output data 1,000 times faster than by conventional mechanical methods.

In Los Angeles, Stromberg-Carlson has acquired the former Electronic Control Systems, Inc., which specializes in automation, electronic computers and data handling systems. Stromberg was previously a part owner.

Production of the charactron tube will continue at the present plant in San Diego, but under Stromberg-Carlson management.

Advanced Development Div. Set Up By Avco

Establishment of the Avco Advanced Development Division has been announced by Victor Emanuel, chairman and president of Avco Manufacturing Corporation. The division will be staffed by members of Avco's team of scientists.

Nucleus of the new division will be already existing laboratory facilities at Everett, Mass., and design facilities at Stratford, Conn., where administrative headquarters also will be situated. Production facilities at Stratford and Cincinnati, Ohio, also will be utilized. S. B. Withington, vice president of Avco and president of the Lycoming Division, will act as general manager of the new division.

Initial work being performed is on contracts in the field of missile development which have been awarded to Avco by the Air Force.

Warehousing Manual

The first installments of a manual governing uniform storage and materials handling methods and procedures for the services has been published and is being distributed.

Entitled, "Storage and Materials Handling Manual," the publication outlines mandatory methods and procedures governing all phases of military warehousing. The first installment covers the storage of lumber, unit loads and on-the-job training for operators of materials handling equipment. Other sections of the manual are in preparation and will be completed within the next few months.

31 Per Cent Turnover In New Contractors

A 31 per cent. turnover occurs among new contractors for key defense items, according to a report released by T. P. Pike, Assistant Secretary of Defense (Supply and Logistics).

Addressed to the Director of Defense Mobilization, the report covered the first five months of operation under a Department of Defense Directive entitled "Maintenance of the Mobilization Base" (No. 3005.3).

Secretary Pike's report states that 185 new contracts totaling $1.2 billion have been let during the period for items on the Defense Department's Preferential Planning List. Fifty-eight of these new contracts, or 31 per cent were awarded to contractors who were not in current production of the item. The fifty-eight contracts involved $99,000,000 worth of awards.

"The figures indicate that the Directive on the Maintenance of the Mobilization Base is not operating to freeze present sources of supply of important defense items," Mr. Pike said.

Advertisers in the Army Navy Air Force Journal support the Armed Forces and are familiar with their requirements.

B/G Medaris Accepts 500,000th 155mm Shell

The 500,000th, 155mm shell produced by workmen at the New Bedford Defense Products plant (New Bedford, Mass.), was presented recently to Brig. Gen. J. B. Medaris, USA, Assistant Chief of Army Ordnance, and Col. R. B. Anderson, USA, Deputy Chief of the Boston Ordnance District. The presentation was made by J. E. Trainer, Executive Vice-President of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., of which the local firm is a division.

As the half-millionth artillery shell came off the line, General Medaris said, "This milestone of production is of real meaning to us of Army Ordnance because the 155mm shell is the real backbone of the Army's artillery." The general also paid compliments to the company for its work on another shell, the 106mm, also in production under the same roof.

Company representatives included Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., Chairman of the Board of Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., Edward B. Pinney, Production Manager, Defense Products Division, and J. Carroll Castello, Plant Manager.

Lt. Col. Schenk Joins GE Electronic Dept.

Lt. Col. Peter J. Schenk, USAFR, former executive officer to the Technical Assistant to the Secretary of the Air Force, has been appointed manager of marketing for the General Electric Light Military Electronic Equipment Department.

Mr. Schenk was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Signal Corps Reserve in 1941 following graduation from Lafayette College where he was cadet commandant of the Infantry ROTC unit. He entered active duty the same year and instructed and organized in the radio and radar school at Ft. Dix, N. J.

He later switched to the Air Force and held such assignments as executive officer to Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle; assistant military director of the Air Force Scientific Advisory Board; executive officer to the Chief Scientist, USAF; deputy for research and later vice commander of the Air Force Cambridge Research Center and a member of the Research and Development Planning Team of the office of the Deputy Chief of Staff, Development, USAF. He holds the rank of lieutenant colonel in the USAFR, and has a mobilization assignment to the Scientific Advisory Board, Office of the Chief of Staff, Headquarters, USAF.

F. A. Gross Named Engr. Mgr.

Fritz A. Gross, formerly a technical advisor to the Navy, has been appointed manager of Raytheon Manufacturing Company's equipment engineering division. He was formerly chief engineer of the division.

Mr. Gross assumes the responsibilities formerly held by J. Ernest Smith, who will continue as vice president and director of engineering for Datamatic Corporation, recently formed under joint ownership of Raytheon and the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company. Mr. Gross joined Raytheon in 1933 to work on special vacuum tube development.

Curtiss-Wright Profits Up

Curtiss-Wright Corporation has reported for the six months ended 30 June 1955, a consolidated net profit of $15,065,859 after provision for federal income taxes. This compares with a consolidated net profit, after taxes, of $7,569,443 for the six months ended 30 June 1954.

The company also reported that price reductions to the Government for the year 1955 will amount to over $100,000,000 resulting from cost reductions and production efficiencies. Unfilled orders, plus scheduled production under advance contracts, of Curtiss-Wright and its subsidiaries totaled approximately $813,000,000 as of 30 June 1955.

Licensed in North Carolina

Col. Robert E. Joseph, USA-Ret., counsel of the United Services Automobile Association, has announced that, for the benefit of its policy holders in North Carolina, the Association has been licensed by the Insurance Commissioner of that state.

Supreme Court Asked To Review Claim Of Dual Pay For Retired Reserve Officer

The Justice Department recently asked the Supreme Court to review the holding of the Court of Claims last Fall permitting Army and Air Force Reserve officers retired under Title III of the Reserve Retirement Act of 1948 to receive retired pay regardless of the amount of civilian compensation they may concurrently receive from the Federal government.

The unanimous decision of the Court of Claims in a case brought by Lt. Col.

Paul Tanner, AUS-Ret., rejected an opinion of the Comptroller General upon which the Army and Air Force Departments have based their denial of retired pay to Reserve officers who hold Federal civilian positions with salaries of $3,000 a year or more. The court held that the plain meaning of an Act of July 1, 1947, conferring certain employment privileges upon Reserve and National Guard personnel was sufficient to exempt reservists retired under the 1948 statute from the dual salary limitations otherwise imposed by Congress.

It is understood that the Department of Justice bases its request for review of this holding primarily on the ground that the decision of the Court of Claims upsets the relationship between retirement provisions relating to Regular officers and those relating to Reserves.

The time within which Colonel Tanner may file an opposition to the government's request for review expires next Monday, 29 Aug. His attorneys, the firm of Ansell and Ansell of Washington, D. C., anticipate that a brief for Colonel Tanner contesting the request of the Department of Justice on several grounds will be filed on that date. One of the reasons to be urged for denying a review of the decision of the Court of Claims, according to the attorneys, will be that the government waited too long under the law before applying to the Supreme Court for review.

The earliest date on which a decision of the Supreme Court upon the request of the Department of Justice for review can be expected is 10 Oct. 1955. If the request for review should be granted, a final decision will not be forthcoming until an indefinitely later date.
